

BIOGRAPHY

Dr. Kevin P. Grant, PMP,
Assistant Professor of Technology Management
University of Texas at San Antonio

Kevin P. Grant has nearly 25 years of professional experience as a project manager, project management educator, and researcher. He serves on the faculty of the Management of Technology program at the University of Texas at San Antonio. Dr. Grant has extensive experience in developing education and training programs for project management in both the public and private sectors. His research has examined team performance, knowledge management in team environments, and the competencies to sustain team performance. He is currently a fellow of the NASA/USRA Center for Program / Project Management Research. He has presented his research in many international forums and published his research in several journals including the Project Management Journal, Engineering Management Journal, and IEEE Transactions on Engineering Management.

NASA Project Management Conference